

Caller ID for E-mail Implementation License

Published: February 20, 2004

This document is intended to expand upon the rights that Microsoft grants to certain individuals and organizations interested in developing and implementing software programs having one or more aspects conformant to the Caller ID for E-mail Specification (the "Specification") by providing a patent license to the Specification. Copies of the technical specifications for the Caller ID for E-mail Specification, which include an associated copyright notice and license, can be found at http://www.microsoft.com/mscorp/twc/privacy/spam\_callerID.msp.

Please read this entire document carefully to understand your rights.

Patent License

Microsoft believes that it has patent rights (patent(s) and/or pending applications(s)) that are necessary for you to license in order to make, sell, or distribute software programs that comply with one or more aspects of the Caller ID for E-mail Specification.

Microsoft and its Affiliates hereby grant you ("Licensee") a fully paid, royalty-free, non-exclusive, worldwide license under Microsoft's Necessary Claims to make, use, sell, offer to sell, import, and otherwise distribute Licensed Implementations, provided, Licensee, on behalf of itself and its Affiliates, hereby grants Microsoft and all other Specification Licensees, a reciprocal fully paid, royalty-free, non-exclusive, worldwide, nontransferable, non-sublicenseable, license under Necessary Claims of Licensee to make, use, sell, offer to sell, import, and otherwise distribute Licensed Implementations.

"Affiliate" means any entity that is directly or indirectly controlled by, under common control with or that controls the subject party. For purposes of this definition control means direct or indirect ownership of or the right to exercise (a) greater than fifty percent (50%) of the outstanding shares or securities entitled to vote for the election of directors or similar managing authority of the subject entity; or (b) greater than fifty percent (50%) of the ownership interest representing the right to make decisions for the subject entity.

A "Licensed Implementation" means only those specific portions of a software product that are fully compliant with the Caller ID for E-mail Specification.

"Necessary Claims" means claims of a patent or patent application that are owned or controlled by a party under this license and its Affiliates and that are necessarily infringed by implementing any portion of the Specification, wherein a claim is necessarily infringed only when it is not possible to avoid infringing it because there is no technically reasonable non-infringing alternative for implementing such portions of the Specification.

Notwithstanding the foregoing sentence, Necessary Claims do not include any claims: (i) that, if licensed, would require a payment of royalties by a party under this license to unaffiliated third parties; (ii) to any enabling technologies that may be necessary to make or use any product or portion thereof that implements the Specification (including, but not limited to, word electronic mail interfaces, electronic mail processing or electronic mail software application features or functionality, programming interfaces, and protocols, and operating system technology); (iii) covering the implementation of other published specifications developed elsewhere and referred to in the Specification, or other caller-id or anti-spam mechanism or technology which is not set forth in the Specification.

If you distribute, license or sell a Licensed Implementation, this license is conditioned upon you requiring that the following notice be prominently displayed in all copies and derivative works of your source code and in copies of the documentation and licenses associated with your Licensed Implementation:

"This product may incorporate intellectual property owned by Microsoft Corporation. If you would like a license from Microsoft, you need to contact Microsoft directly."

By including the above notice in a Licensed Implementation, you will be deemed to have accepted the terms and conditions of this license. You are not licensed to distribute a Licensed Implementation under license terms and conditions that prohibit the terms and conditions of this license.

You are not licensed to sublicense or transfer your rights.

Microsoft reserves the right to terminate this license grant if you sue Microsoft or any of Microsoft's Affiliates for patent infringement over claims relating to implementation of one or more aspects of the Specification.

You should consult applicable export control laws and regulations to determine whether they apply to your Licensed Implementation.
